Univets to Bomb Montreal; Students Navigate Aircraft

Leaflets Distributed at Noon Today to Publicize Veterans' Organization, as Part of Extensive Municipal Advertising Campaign

By AL TUNIS

25,000 leaflets will flutter down from a lone Stinson aircraft high above Montreal today at noon, when Univet Enterprises unleashes its publicity campaign for more part-time jobs for student veterans.

Manned by three McGill students, all ex-R.C.A.F. personnel, the plane will take off from Cartierville airport, fly over the centre of the city, where it will release its bomb-load—in the form of reminders to the general Montreal public that Univet Enterprises is still functioning, and is going all out to procure part-time employment for its ex-servicemen.

Pilot of the aircraft will be Miles Beech, commerce student, who was formerly a flight engineer with Pan-American (Greece) Airways. Tom McGlade, now studying economics at McGill, will act as the navigator, and Leon Lipson, also an economics student will be the "bomb-aimer". It will be McGlade's duty to see that the leaflets are properly distributed over the city proper.

Important NFCUS Meet Scheduled

A meeting of the McGill committee of the National Federation of Canadian University Students will be held at five o'clock tomorrow afternoon for the purpose of presenting to students associated with the NFCUS at McGill an up-to-the-minute account of the activities of this organization on the campus. Students will have the opportunity of giving their opinions; decisions vital to individual students will be made at the National Conference of Universities on Dec. 27, 28, 29, and 30 as a result.

The meeting will be chaired by John A. MacDonald, elected vice-chairman of local NFCUS, who will give a brief summary of the work done by each of the panels set up a month ago by the students themselves; panels treat of Educational method, Student employment, Student government, International and national scholarship, Student housing and cultural exchange between organized groups, internationally, nationally and locally in terms of contributions to general understanding of University students as a result of practical possibility of same. The panel chairman will be in attendance and will be in a position to answer any relevant questions that should arise.

The election of a treasurer and of a secretary will be held; the chairman expects that this will be carried out on the same objective, non-partisan basis that has distinguished the direction of NFCUS affairs in the past at McGill. The candidates for the vacant positions must be members in good standing of the NFCUS McGill Committee.

The Chairman of NFCUS will report on the meeting held at Toronto over the weekend at which the National Secretary-Treasurer, the Second Vice-President (the President of McMaster University's Student Body) the President of Toronto University's Student Body and McGill's local NFCUS Chairman were present. The matter of arranging for an agenda for the National Conference was extensively treated and it was considered essential that the matter should be referred to the individual Student University; the entire future of this national body hinges on the importance allocated on the agenda to problems of pressing immediacy; these include student employment and the related problem of Canada's export market for specialized technicians, the allocation of scholarships to Canadians, the facilities offered to students regarding travel throughout Canada and abroad as a means of completing their education, etc. The role that Canadians can play through making the voice of their students heard clear and strong at

Coed Staff Succeeds In Publishing Gazette

London, December 2.—(CUP)—It's a woman's world—at least occasionally, according to a report received from the offices of the Western Gazette. This week's issue was edited entirely by the co-ed members of the Gazette staff and they're pretty proud of the job they've done.

As is traditional, male members of the staff were forcibly ejected from the office and according to the report will "probably be fired next week." The co-eds seem to feel that they can handle the job alone.

All aspects of makeup were handled by the girls, including sports, news, features and cartoons, under the leadership of Anne Weldon, the CUP editor, who was appointed editor-in-chief for the issue.

Vets' Report Published By Committee

"Statistics show that married veterans are more in need of financial aid than single veterans," is the leading conclusion of the committee which reported on the financial section of the recent questionnaire answered by 700 of McGill Veterans. This committee headed by Kent Boucher, has issued a lengthy report which appears in full below.

Details from this statement were presented to the Cabinet ministers at Ottawa by the delegation from the Society last Thursday.

MEETING THURSDAY

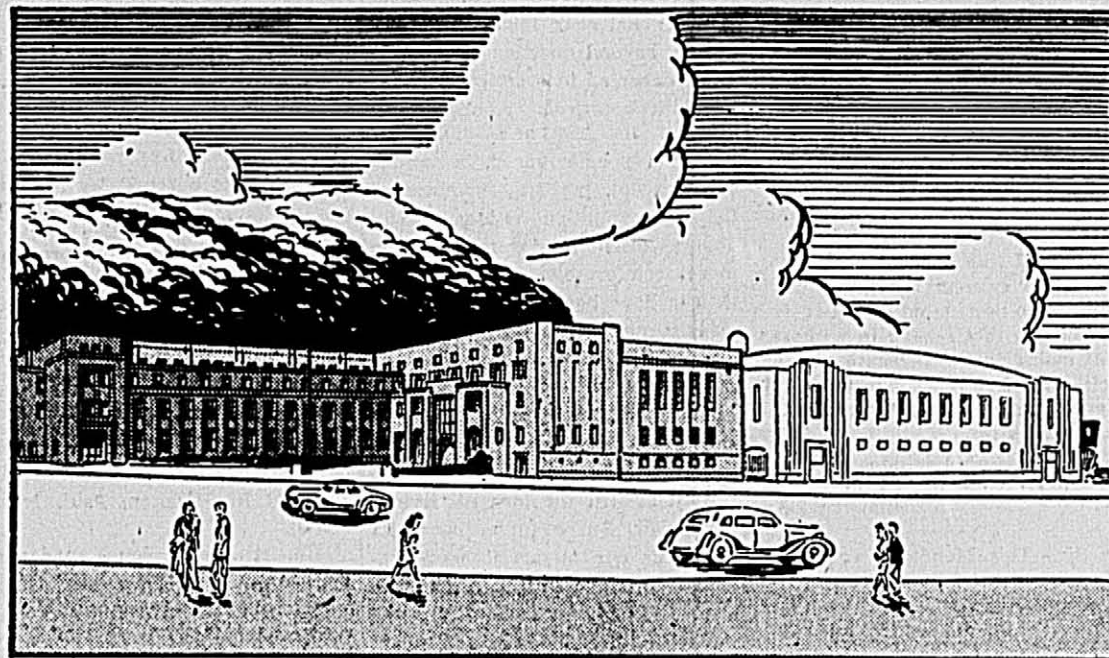

The Veterans' Society are holding a general meeting this coming Thursday at five o'clock in the Union Ballroom. Yesterday's Daily said that the constitution would be discussed, but this was not correct, for reports of the committee in charge of the constitution will not be ready, because this committee will not be making its final report until early in the new year, thus giving veterans sufficient time to submit their ideas in writing to the chairman, William S. Tyndale at 115 Sunnyside Avenue.

The report of the reviewers' study of the McGill student Veterans' Society Questionnaire on the financial questions is as follows:

"In conducting a statistical review of the financial section of this questionnaire difficulty was met in interpreting the answers to the best advantage. There was no direct correlation between questions No. 1 and No. 2 and therefore none was attempted, rather the actual amounts given were tabulated and it is hoped a general impression may be obtained by scanning these.

No attempt was made to average because of the generalized nature of the questions. Averages would

Red and White Society Holds Open Meeting

Dancing to the music of Hugh Lynch and his orchestra completed the first open meeting of some of the 500-odd members of this year's Red and White Society. The first portion of the meeting was devoted to the discussion and voting of the amendments to the Society's constitution which were proposed by the new Executive.

Several of the amendments were passed at the meeting, which was chaired by Bob Mackay, chairman of the Society. Among the amendments passed was one concerning the yearly continuation of the Society.

The business portion of the meeting was followed by an informal get-together among the members and finished with a couple of hours dancing.

Med. Faculty Accused at Manitoba U.

Pre-medical veterans of the University of Manitoba have accused the medical faculty of being "directly opposed to one of the basic functions of a democratic university" and they propose that their case be brought before the provincial legislature at its next session.

The veterans maintained that a closed shop policy was practised at the university and that the health program of the province was suffering as a result. The only solution to their problem is for immediate action to be taken by the committee appointed by Premier Garson. The most important question at the moment is whether a January class will be admitted, and the veterans are anxious to receive a reply.

Until now, there have been shortages of supplies, staff equipment and money, so that the acceptance of not more than seventy students per session was understandable. The Dominion Government and DVA have assured the veterans who want to enter the January class that funds will be made available.

Staff-Student Forum To Be Held Friday

A Staff-Student Forum sponsored by the Staff Christian Association of McGill will be held on Friday, December 13, at 8 p.m. in the Union Grill. The topic of the Forum will be "Christianity, Politics, and Economics."

Staff members from various departments are planning to attend and to take part in the Forum, which will be under the chairmanship of Professor R. D. MacLennan, Philosophy Department. All members and students who are interested in the forces of Christianity, of politics, and of Economics acting in national or in individual life are invited to attend and participate in the Forum.

further complicate the material. The nature of the sample in the opinion of the reviewers is not accurate. Approximately 17 per cent. of the student veterans answered the questionnaire—this in itself is a good percentage but random

T. Eaton Co. Offers Prizes

Over 300 canvassers are hurrying about the Campus vying with each other in their efforts to obtain the highest total in contributions. Fifty dollar prizes in the form of purchasing certificates, donated by the T. Eaton Co., are offered for the best man and best woman canvasser. All are reminded that $1 contributions are the minimum, from those who cannot possibly afford more. For the campaign to be a success, all who can do so must contribute at least $2 and preferably $5.

One hundred per cent. participation will not put the campaign over the top if everyone gives only one dollar. Don't leave it to the next man. Make your's a worthwhile contribution. Do your part to show the Grads that we appreciate their efforts and they will be only too glad to do even more for you. Don't "Let George do it." Pull your own weight and we will MAKE MCGILL INDEPENDENT.

Engineers To Hear E. Ryan

The first general meeting of the Engineering Undergraduate Society is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at 4.00 p.m. in room 33 of the Engineering Building. The guest speaker will be Mr. E. A. Ryan, President of the Corporation of Professional Engineers of Quebec. In addition to giving an address, Mr. Ryan will present the Corporation's bursary to Brian Morrow of third year.

The agenda is a lengthy one and in order to complete it in good time Dean O'Neill has cancelled lectures between 4 and 6 o'clock tomorrow. This will give all engineers a chance to attend.

One of the features of the meeting will be the presentation of the Certificates of Merit and the Athletic Awards. Reports will be presented by John Knecht, Social Manager Leo Bilodeau, chairman of the Action Committee, E. Gauthier, president of the Debating Society and George Schneider, Athletics Manager.

This is the second attempt of President Ritchie Ward of the E.U.S. to hold a general meeting. The last one, called for about two weeks ago, had to be cancelled because of the attendance of only 15 men. This time it was decided to hold it in the afternoon and Dean O'Neill gave his whole cooperation by cancelling lectures. It is hoped by the executive that all plumb-ers will take advantage of this to attend.

Confident Of Good Returns

Eric A. Leslie, past President of the McGill Graduates' Society and largely responsible for the $370,000 collected in the McGill War Memorial to date, will attend today's interim progress luncheon for all year representatives which is to be held in the Union Grillroom at 1.30.

With initial Rink-Auditorium Campaign returns received up to last night showing light in total although at good average level, Chairman Bud Trivett has issued an urgent appeal to canvassers and contributors to speed up the process and get their contributions to the Registrar's office this afternoon without delay so as to swell the totals for tomorrow's report.

Particularly, it is urged that canvassers do not wait until their lists are completed before making an initial report. If your list is only half covered as of this afternoon, submit your results to date.

The system of accounting allows for a cumulative total to be built up in a series of interim reports. A page in the record has been set aside for every canvasser, to be filled in and totalled as the results come in for compilation. In this way, the rights of every canvasser in the Eaton's $50.00 Merchandise Certificates will be fully protected and subject to audit.

"It is known that coverage achieved to date is very much wider than is indicated in the summary of returns actually received by Organization yesterday afternoon," stated Bud Trivett. "Many are already wearing the Badge of Honour in their button holes and a big jump in total amount collected as well as in percentage of the students covered is confidently anticipated when the books are closed on today's collections."

"To the canvassers, we repeat, let's get the Campaign cleaned up in short order. Let's have at least your interim report this afternoon. Let's get that maximum effort which will put us quickly over the top."

Class representatives are again reminded of today's interim progress luncheon to be held in the Union Grill Room beginning at 1.30. It is essential that all year representatives attend this important function.

Johnny Wight, vice-chairman of Campaign Organization, issued a statement calling upon the undergraduates to help the canvass by bringing their contributions direct to the Cashier's Desk in the Registrar's Office in the event that their regular class canvassers have not contacted them by noon today.

"The canvassers have a big field to cover," stated Johnny, "and it may not be possible for them to get around to everyone as quickly as they would like. You can help us greatly by either looking for one of your class canvassers or bringing in your contribution on your own initiative."

NON-PROM DANCE

The Non-Prom Dance will be held on Friday, Dec. 6 at 9 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Dress will be semi-formal, and music will be supplied by Archie Etienne and his orchestra. Tickets at $1.50 are now on sale at the Union, and the Arts and Engineering buildings.

Council Issues Statement On Decisions Concerning Musicians Guild Question

Dance To Follow Basketball Games

Em Orlick has planned another Athletic Festival for tomorrow evening. Forming the sports part of the affair is a double header basketball game featuring the Dawson Senior M.B.L. team squaring off against the loop-leading Migos following the opening intermediate contest with Macdonald College, at 7:30 p.m.

The other half of the program will consist of a rally for the Rink Auditorium with Johnny Holmes and his all-star orchestra presenting an hour-long floor show as well as a pleasant evening of dancing to the music of Pete Tyler's efficient Sound Service. This rally will take place directly after the teams have left the floor. Girls are being brought in from St. Johns for the dance as was done previously. The charge for the whole evening is 25 cents.

Appeal Made For Dawson Nominations

St. Johns, December 2.—(Special to The Daily)—Two campus organizations will make appearances at Dawson College very shortly, it was revealed today by Student Council representatives. The groups in question are the Scarlet Key and House Committee, which are still accepting nominations.

Dawson Key officials have made an urgent appeal for the submission of candidates' names from all faculties represented at Dawson, with the added reminder that these nominations must be made before Monday, December 9. The group is to consist of fifteen members, with seven representatives expected from Arts and Science, six from Engineering, and two from the Commerce section. Officials promise that the organization will swing into action as soon as possible. The Dawson Key, similar in function to McGill's Scarlet Key, will be in charge of regulating and ushering the social and athletic functions to be held here in the future.

W. D. Hillard, secretary-treasurer of the Dawson Student Council, has announced that the deadline for nominations for the House Committee has now been set for Wednesday, December 4 at 4.00 p.m. This time extension had been granted, he stated, because no one nomination has yet reached the Student Council offices. Nominations should be signed by the nominee and fifteen members of the student body.

Importance of Vets Conference Stressed by National President

By LEN STARKEY
(President, National Conference)

Last December student veterans representing twenty-six Canadian universities and three large trade and technical schools met in Montreal where they initiated a permanent organization — THE NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF STUDENT VETERANS. The NCSV directed its deliberations at that time towards the action necessary to solve the pressing problems faced by many student veterans.

Since that Conference these problems have not disappeared but have become more acute and widespread than ever before.

Veterans at McGill, and everywhere else in the country, have indicated that they consider government action to increase grants, to relieve the housing shortage, to deal with the various aspects of our employment needs and the many other details which need improvement in the rehabilitation to be very necessary. The prediction made at last year's Conference that many veterans would soon be forced to leave the university has been borne out by the statement by the Vice-Dean of Sir George Williams College that 12 veterans of every 100 who register leave for

Stand of Governors Explained on Rejection

By ALLAN KNIGHT

In view of the student interest involved in the matter of the resolution concerning the Musicians Guild of Montreal which was passed by the Students Executive Council and rejected by the Board of Governors, the Council decided last night at their meeting to place the facts of the situation before the student body.

Cameron's Orchestra Plays at Coed Dance

The Women's Union will hold their annual Christmas Dance on Saturday, December 14, from 8.30-12, in the Upper Gym in R.V.C.

Amid Christmas Trees adorned with tinsel and lights will drift the smooth strains of Don Cameron's orchestra, and for your added enjoyment there will be chorus lines, skits, quartets, and plenty of carol singing. Santa Claus is expected to drop in for a visit, and food and refreshments will be served in the new R.V.C. cafeteria. Tickets can be obtained for 1.75 per couple from Joy MacKay.

"The Private Life of a Cat" Is Main Film

The McGill Film Society will present three films at 5 p.m. this afternoon in Room 250 of the Biology Building. The feature picture, produced by Alexander Hamid, will be "The Private Life of a Cat," in which the complete range of feline experience and expression is captured on film with no human intrusion. The camera follows a mother and father cat through courtship and the birth and upbringing of their five kittens. A complete lack of self-consciousness graces the feline performances. The narration is done by Moya Deren, a top-notch film maker in her own right. The Film Society hopes to present some of her films later in the year.

"Pheasant Fever" is another in the series of Hawley-Lord wildlife films. Photographed in technicolor, this picture will thrill all pheasant shooting enthusiasts. Included also, is an excellent illustration of the training of a young bird-dog in field work.

The third film on the program for this afternoon is "Crafts of the Fire." It is the fascinating and imaginative portrayal of the difficult and highly-skilled art of glass blowing and moulding. Following the usual program for afternoon showings this program has been selected to add up to one hour's showing time.

The resolution read "that the Council agree with the request of the Musicians Guild of Montreal that non-union musicians be denied the privilege of playing at social functions under the jurisdiction of the McGill Students Society."

This was passed due to a Council belief that it was protecting the best interests of the students because of a possible boycott of student functions by union musicians.

The grounds on which the Governors rejected the resolution were that "although the Board of Governors recognizes the right of the Students Executive Council, and of any recognized student club or committee, to exercise its own discretion in the employment of orchestras or other musicians, it is not within the power of the Students Executive Council to make any agreement with the Montreal Musicians Guild or other similar bodies in regard to matters of general policy governing such contracts of employment."

It was impressed by the Governors that the Council itself do not legally hire orchestras or other similar entertainers.

The Guild was contacted by the Council and a list of recognized clubs was sent, at their request, to them. This was to allow the individuals directly concerned in hiring bands to be approached by the Guild. The latter were satisfied with the decisions of both the Board of Governors, and of the Council in sending the list.

To best serve the student body and in order to preserve the existing rights of responsibility invested in the Council, it was generally felt that no good could come of pressing this particular issue.

It must be impressed, the Council feels, that decisions involving the name of McGill made by the Council are dependent on the approval of the Board of Governors, who granted the charter to the Council, and who have the final authority over student government.

Other matters discussed on the agenda involved the setting up of a Board of Publications to include The Daily, the Annual, the Forge, the Handbook, the Medical Journal.

The Athletics Night

College spirit is that elusive quality of mind about which everyone seems to talk but, like Mark Twain's weather, no one ever does anything positive to further it. And yet, the Athletics Night scheduled for the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium this Saturday evening appears to be destined to contradict the previous sentence in a way that can leave but little doubt as to whether such a thing as "spirit" actually exists on the McGill campus.

The intense, all-pervading feeling of "my college, right or wrong" is probably the first manifestation of what political scientists have come to call nationalism but it is that feeling which unites undergraduates of a university in a common bond of loyalty and allegiance. Truly, however, the spirit must have some way of expressing itself or else it dies in birth and to express itself it must have some object or action towards which it is directed. Saturday's Athletics Night provides the necessary action, or more accurately, group of actions.

The idea for a gala athletics carnival resembling in some of its features a four ring circus is not new. The committee in charge is perfectly willing to admit that it is planned as a direct imitation of a similar set of events that take place at Toronto Varsity almost every week during the winter season. As far as the McGill campus is concerned, the series of attractions to be displayed, and the grandiose lavishness of their presentation has not been equalled in recent years.

The actual details are familiar to most students and can be read in the news columns of this paper. The Night will offer everyone a variety of entertainment chosen to please all of the people all of the time. Basketball, boxing, wrestling, squash, and dancing should satisfy the most discriminating of tastes but above all else it will be the chance of the year to see whether such a mystic thing as spirit can be roused by any event other than the Saturday afternoon football game.

College and football, spirit and football are terms that are practically synonymous but whether the Athletics Night can supplement hockey and replace the football game for the winter season is something time alone will tell. If it fails, it certainly will not be for lack of effort on the part of the committee in charge. No detail has been over-looked to ensure that a maximum of pleasure will be obtained by all those attending. The calibre of ability of the visiting clubs who will face McGill's athletes in the various contests to be presented is of the highest. Everyone knows about the event, the time and the place so that as is usual, its success or failure rests directly in the hands of the student body.

TIME and TIDE

Reading the Newspapers . . . Students in Europe . . . Courage . . . Resistance, Capture, Liberation and Return to Study . . . A story not be missed.

An interesting and moving picture, of the work done by the International Student Service, was prepared for the Saturday Night by Dr. A. Vibert Douglas, Dean of the Women's Residence at Queen's U. The article purposes to explain, how the money raised for I.S.S. will be used. Describing this use, it tells the story of several European students. The stories are—frankly—terrifying. They are not the sort of thing one likes to find in one's newspaper when one opens it on a cold morning, at a nine o'clock lecture.

Yet these are things we should read—all the time, so as never to forget what has happened to students in other countries—students like us.

The article tells of student "foyers" being established.

Three have been established in Czechoslovakia. Food and books had been sent by student groups in Denmark, clothing and shoes from Sweden, paper from Norway and books from Geneva, Britain and America.

A sanatorium for students is operating and the Czech students have requested that some students from other countries be sent there so that it may have an international atmosphere and influence.

Denmark was given a small grant to enable student centres to begin functioning.

In the first six months of this year, they collected the equivalent of $20,000 for I.S.S. They have held refresher courses for students of other nationalities, and have sent food parcels to other devastated European countries.

The tale of self help, of courage and initiative continues. And among all these students, the I.S.S. workers carry on their task, helping, counselling. They search out students who suffered persecution because of non-collaboration. They bring back, to their studies, those who have given up, who have lost the courage to learn.

The famous Sanatorium Universitaire, of Switzerland, has been a great help to students. There go those who have been stricken by Tuberculosis. In beautiful surroundings and under expert medical care, they rest—and they study.

And here is where Dr. Douglas was told some of the horrible stories I mentioned before. A young Dutch student worked in the resistance movement, was caught by the Germans and deported. Work in an underground V2 factory, poor food, no medical care, resulted in TB. He is studying now at the sanatorium and making good progress towards his degree.

A French student was liberated after four years in Buchenwald concentration camp. He has written four examinations from his bed, and will soon receive his degree of Doctor in Law, from the U. of Paris. Hostels have been established, one is at Ashton Hayes, in England, another at Combloux, in the French Alps. Dr. Douglas visited the latter hostel, and met the students, about eighty of them, men and women, who had played heroic parts in the resistance movements. They stay three months at the Châlet, resting, talking, skiing.

The intellectual and recreational life of the Châlet was organized, for the most part, by a young Frenchman who was 17 years old in 1939. He entered the Sorbonne, worked for the underground, and before obtaining his degree, he was arrested. He suffered solitary confinement for 18 months, and this, together with cold and undernourishment of several years, broke his health. After a stay at this hostel, he returned to France, received his degree, and is now working for the I.S.S.

A medical student from southern France was there. He had finished three years at the University of Lyons when his participation in resistance activity was discovered and he was obliged to go into hiding. He made his way across country and eventually joined the Free French forces. They put him in the Tank Corps. In one skirmish he was wounded and taken prisoner, sent to Germany and made to work in a factory until illness led to his transfer to the prison hospital where he was found at the time of liberation. Slowly his health has improved and three months at Combloux were bringing him to the condition which made return to the medical school seem possible.

This is only a bare outline of the article. It should be read by every student. Above all, the conclusion should be read. Dr. Douglas has faith in the students. "These young people are worth saving," she writes. And the I.S.S. seems to be doing a great deal to help them, and doing it in the right spirit.

English Department Play Has Nautical Theme

For the past few weeks, much preparation has been going on to ready "Outward Bound", the current play being produced by McGill's English department, and which is scheduled to perform in Moyse Hall on December 12 and 13.

The setting of "Outward Bound" is a ship's bar. In order to ensure authenticity, Mr. Long inspected several ships docked at Montreal harbor, and obtained portholes from a local ship's chandler. Meanwhile, students of English 13 and 22 have been building scenery in their laboratory hours. Mr. Long states that he is well pleased with the students' work.

Because "Outward Bound" is a modern play, few special costumes had to be made. Mrs. Long was chiefly concerned with obtaining costumes which would suit the characters and stand out from the scenery, which is dark brown. In costuming Mrs. Midget, some research was necessary, and descriptions of an English charwoman were obtained from several people who had been in England. Several costumes for women characters will need padding. Mrs. Long has as assistants two women students of English 13.

Reserve tickets for the two performances can be obtained from students in the drama courses or by mail order to Elmer Hall, Arts Building. All seat sales are $1.00.

have the opportunity to show whether they themselves have this same spirit. It will be a colourful, gay night with all the essentials needed to herald the return of those elusive personalities "Joe and Josephine College".

LETTER FORUM

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—In view of the recent action of the Board of Governors in contravening the decision of the Student's Executive Council re the hiring of Union Bands, we the undersigned, request the S.E.C. to make a statement clarifying these events and stating their stand on the issue.

Twenty-five McGill Students.
(List of Names attached.)

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Sir,—May I through the medium of the "Daily" serve notice that I have withdrawn my nomination as Commerce representative to the Student's Executive Council.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to those who nominated me. It is with reluctance that I have to withdraw but owing to the pressure of other activities, I would be unable to devote the necessary time that this office requires.

Yours very truly,
A. W. GILLESPIE.
Commerce 2-3.

Sir,—This Monday, two overcoats were taken from the students union. It is possible that they were taken by mistake, but as my coat was alone on the rack, I doubt it. No student can afford these losses. No student can afford pneumonia. I can think of only two solutions to the problem. One, that we start a checking system, or two, that we appoint a secret police to keep their eyes open in the union. I feel that this matter should be taken up by the council.

A. J. M. JOHNSTON,
Arts 2.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—I am a McGill student and I feel that my lapel is quite complete without the "red and white badge" which today's Daily says that no student is without. My reasons for this are very simple and I feel that I am expressing the views of many of my fellow students in stating them.

It may be very essential in the minds of some people to make McGill independent, but in the world of today such a thing is entirely impossible. To quote Donne: "No man is an island entire of itself. . . I am involved in Mankind. . . . Today when so many people are suffering and homeless how can we blithely sit back and build rink-auditoriums and tourist hotels? Can we divorce utterly from the rest of mankind? It seems to me that this sort of Ivory Towerishness is something which strikes deep into the heart of a world in which peace is almost entirely dependent on economic security—it shows us up for the kind of people who sit back and say "It can't happen here." It can, in spite of, and perhaps because of this kind of thing.

Rink auditorium? Yes, McGill will wall itself in a red-brick building and let the rest of the world go to hell. A poor man cannot even build himself an outhouse in his own backyard these days. It will comfort the people of starving Europe much, I am sure, to know that we are leading clean, healthy, athletic lives here.

Sincerely,
MARY HOWELL, Arts II.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—The subject of cheerleaderettes has been kicked around for some time now on the McGill campus. This topic seems to be like the weather . . . everybody talks about it but nobody does anything about it. Well, almost nobody.

Approximately two weeks ago a meeting was held in R.V.C. to discuss the "Desirability of Cheerleaderettes." A few radical co-eds (bless 'em) actually flew into the face of established tradition when they voiced the opinion that cheerleaderettes would be a great help in boosting campus spirit. Rumor has it that the discussion was a lively affair but not much more is known. An article in the Daily covering the meeting prompted my good friend, Vern Quinn, to write a letter to the editor condemning the "prudery of McGill co-eds."

I'm not going to risk incurring the wrath of the co-eds by making such a sweeping statement. Mr. Quinn has been walking to lectures with all the assurance of an antelope in a jungle full of hungry lions. He swears that a horde of women is out to get him.

But there does appear to be a narrow-minded, mid-Victorian minority who suspect that the advocates of cheerleaderettes are trying to sabotage the high standard of deportment of the McGill co-eds by their evil machinations. This minority, it is said, is planning to ask for the speedy ratification of a bill which will force every co-ed to wear a veil and ankle-length dress.

This matter of co-ed cheerleaderettes is one in which every McGill student is interested. Let's have a definite stand by the powers that guide co-ed destinies. How about it? Is there a chance that antiquated custom will be replaced by something new, or not?

Yours truly,
TONY DUNCAN,
B.A. II.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—I understand the iron law of type space for letters to the editor but my effort must stay undiluted. However, using senatorial second thought I would like to use your paper for a second letter. Our principal's message of this morning, stating that there is wide agreement about the fittingness of a functional war memorial is, of course, beyond question and this is to be expected in a society informed with bourgeois standards of conduct and rightness—and comfort. Few people indeed, in our society except, perhaps, members of the contemplative orders, would oppose attempts to make them more comfortable. All bourgeois actions have been and still are, always turned to precisely these ends and as we see here, they use any means to achieve this end, even to prostituting the hallowed name of the dead. One would be indeed naïve to expect any sort of wide protest against the idea of "living" memorials. But even on bourgeois standards our memorial seems inadequate and unfitting. Perhaps a soap factory might make us and posterity richer, happier and cleaner.

I wonder if anyone shares with me the fantastic idea that a memorial is something to make us remember. Surely if we are to remember those who are in heaven then we should use only the part of us that properly belongs to heaven. It would be fitting then to use our art to build a solemn, beautiful, enduring and lonely monument somewhere high above our bodily and material environments, where terrestrial noises will not distract our remembering of noble sacrifices. I have no right to make prophecies but it is my deep conjecture that we may be the civilization of the Apocalypse that said in its heart "I sit a queen, I am no widow, and I shall not see mourning."

MARTIN KIERANS, B.Sc. III.

Dec. 1st, 1946.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,—Last Saturday afternoon I spent five long hours writing the first session of the "Graduate Record Examination." The experience, if gruelling, was most interesting. Never before had I so candidly been shown just how little I did know; never before had I realized the extent to which my honors course limited my horizons. In this regard, the experience was definitely a good one, probably a most valuable one for any student's own information.

It seems to me that this is the total value that this examination can have for Canadian students and universities. I do not see how the acceptance of a student at a Canadian university can be made dependent on such a test. Let me elaborate. The historical questions were nearly all on ancient history or history of the U.S. The same situation reigned throughout most of the social science section. The economics part of the test concerned itself almost exclusively with economic institutions and the Federal Reserve System. In American universities the emphasis lies on such questions but one could have taken quite a number of economics courses at McGill (exclusive of Ec. 5) and be at a great disadvantage in answering these questions.

In the past, students who have taken this test have been rather disappointed in their results on social sciences. The reason for this must be obvious. Canadians just do not know who the political boss in upstate N.Y. in 1915 was.

Might I suggest, Mr. Editor, that some organization, such as the NFCUS, look into the matter of establishing a Canadian equivalent of this examination. Is the McGill Faculty of Medicine aware of the serious advantage to American students rendered when this examination is taken into account?

Yours very truly,
OTTO FORCHHEIMER.

A shy girl sat next to a bishop at a formal dinner. Seeing some bananas being passed, she seized on this topic of conversation.

"I beg your pardon, but do you like bananas?" she queried.

The bishop, slightly deaf, didn't quite catch the question.

Blushingly she repeated, "Do you like bananas?"

"It is a queer question," the bishop answered, after pondering a minute or two, "but I have always preferred the old-fashioned night shirt."

There!

See the surging seas of color and sound that rise;
Wild waves which beat the ears and blind the eyes
Rich reds, cool whites, live greens and black;
Churning wheels which spin and grind and clack.

Smooth silks, rustling, slipping and sliding;
Coarse cloths catching, crumpling and chiding.

Hear it?

The sound of a thousand-voiced throng
Roaring, torrential in sublimest song.

Living, loosely leaping fingers of light
Shivering widespread windows in white.

Look Around!

The wizened, warped, the young and the toothless.

All, all! Passion, pathos, pride and pity.

Dawson Cagers Meet Vaunted Migo Squad On St. John Court

The Dawson Senior M.B.L. entry is out to nab its second victory of the yet-young season, this Wednesday night, when they play the league-leading Migos at the Orlick Gym.

St. John's coach Charlie Goldbloom has had his boys romping through several practices, since their close loss to the Y.M.H.A. last week, and comments that his Red and Blue warriors have been constantly improving in these sessions. Team officials also point out that two new men will be on the Dawson lineup this Wednesday evening, although they are reluctant to mention names. They add, however, that the quintet on the floor will be an all-Dawson team, in contrast to two previous games in which McGill men Duford and Kaszas performed.

MIGOS POWERFUL
The Dawsonites meet a powerful aggregation in Chick Malis' fast flying Migos. Sparkplugged by red-headed Ron Wilson, the visitors will also feature Mendy Morein, Syd Strulovitch, Pete Finlay, and Norm Segalovitch. Two football Allouettes, Pete King and Marj Antony may break into the shirt-sponsored outfit's lineup tomorrow night for the first time. Six-footer Wilson, most valuable man in the league this year, will be a man to keep an eye on, always dangerous from any spot on the floor.

Goldbloom has reshuffled his lineup somewhat, and will present a different version than that seen in the Dawson opener in the team's initial victory over the Budds. Pending the release of the names of the two new additions, the Dawson lineup will stand pat with Vern Taylor and Goldbloom in guard posts, and a starting trio of Kenny Taylor, Bobby Forcand, and John Gearey. "Pop" Keele, always a good man to have on the floor, will be kept in reserve. States the Dawson basketball mentor, "Wait until we hit our peak form. It may be tomorrow night!"

INTERMEDIATES FACE MAC
The Dawson Intermediate M.B.L. team will take to the floor to start off the second Athletic Festival of the season. Also on the agenda for the event (so they hope) is a smashing victory over the Aggies to start the ball rolling towards a league leading position.

This last hope they may find difficult as the Green and Gold boys, pre-season favourites, have now enhanced their reputation by a 30-28 victory over McGill last Friday. However the St. John's crew have been practicing nightly and coach "Doc" Holmes, not related to John-

Redmen Play Sir George In Cage Tilt

Intercollegiate — that seemingly magic word that automatically attracts thousands of students — will be on display in the basketball field tomorrow night at the Currie gym. Yes our Lew Davies-coached cage quintet will be pitted against the Maroon and Gold of Sir George Williams College in a tune up game for the Clarkson tilt on Saturday.

REDMEN CONFIDENT
Despite their defeat in their initial game against the Y.M.H.A. by a 42-36 count the Redmen are confident they can upset the Georgian applicant in tomorrow night's encounter which begins at 8:00 p.m. Leasing the Red and White hoops into action will be George Davidson, who notched 14 points against the Blues two weeks ago. Bob Duford, stellar guard, Sammy Roth, Ken Hoyle, Fitzgerald, Goodwin, et al.

Davies will carry 15 players for both this tilt and the Clarkson engagement. Although the intercollegiate limit is 10 players, coach Davies is taking advantage of these pre-season exhibition contests to look over his proteges in order to pick his ten best players. The Georgians will be paced by such reliables as Mag Flynn, Glen Wood, Stan Robertson, Mickey McFall and Abe Waxman.

At the same time that the senior cagers are tangleing with the Georgians in the big gym, the Intermediate Redmen will face the U. of M. quintet in the small gym in a regular MBL tilt. This is a very important engagement for Coach Ron Rutherford's charges as the Carabins are undefeated and leading the league while the local squad has won one and lost one so that a win is imperative if they are to remain in the fight for first place.

Intramural Manager Announces Puck Plans

With the continuation of this cold weather intramural hockey is scheduled to begin as soon as a suitable ice-surface can be completed, with both McTavish Rinks being used exclusively for hockey.

The arrangements for the coming year are to have several leagues in operation made up of representatives of the different classes of each faculty. This is being done in order to provide hockey for as many students as possible, and also to give everybody a fair chance to make their interfaculty squads which will be chosen from the interclass league and will, on the completion of the latter, play-off for the championship.

In order to get an idea of just how many students will do their skates to uphold the reputation of their faculty, it would be appreciated by these organizers if the students interested would sign the lists on the bulletin boards in the different buildings.

Squash Squad Opposes Grads At Athletics Night Saturday Eve

On Saturday evening, with the A team playing in the States, the B squash squad will be earning its spurs against a team of recent McGill graduates. Spectators at the Athletics Night will be seeing stylist Al Gillespie, who learned squash out in British Columbia as well as Denis Stairs, a member of last year's intercollegiate champion.

that they are as good as their teammates.

DESSAULT LEADS GRADS
Leading the McGill Grads into action will be two former members of McGill intercollegiate tennis teams, Pierre Dessault and Tony Wolever. Also appearing will be Jim Coristine, Rod Patch and Wally Markhem.

Whatever the outcome of the matches no one will come away dissatisfied for what this B team might lack in finesse it will make up in sheer fight and determination. For squash is a game in which legs and fight are two of the most important factors and the McGill boys have both of these in abundance.

Squash rackets is an off-shoot of the game of rackets which started to be played in England in the early nineteenth century. This is a terribly expensive game as the four-walled court is 60 feet long by 30 feet wide and 30 feet high. The ball is very hard and constructed similarly to a baseball so that up to three or four rackets can be broken in a single match of this extremely fast game.

Water Poloists Face National In Tilt Tonight

The McGill Junior Water Polo Team plays at National this evening in a regular league game. The game will see two very evenly matched teams battling it out for second place. The Juniors suffered their only defeat in the first game of the year when they were outplayed by the strong Y.M.H.A. team. It is well worth adding that the Club Nationale have recently spent 8,000 dollars on their pool and now boast of one of the finest in the city.

SENIORS POSTPONED
Last night the McGill Senior Team were due to play the M.A. A.A. in an exhibition tilt. The game, however, was postponed in favor of Charlie Miller and his camera. Charlie spent an hour in taking some very fine action shots of the McGill team. For the remainder of the practice the Red-

Squashette fans, Attention! At last your troubles are over! A squash coach has been procured. From now on there will be coaching from 2:15-3:45 p.m. every Tuesday in the Currie Gym. Now is the time for beginners to get out and learn what really cooks when they bat that little ball around.

Those who want instruction will be allowed twenty minutes as that is sufficient time to get thoroughly pooped out! As usual equipment can be obtained from Jimmy at the men's locker room. Two courts will be reserved for Thursday morning for any who want practice.

Coach Campbell Chooses Team To Open Season Against U of M

By ALEC MacINTYRE
(Daily Staff Writer)

With only one position still in doubt Dave Campbell's champion Redmen have started their final week of training prior to the opening of the Intercollegiate schedule next Saturday.

Dave named his defence and two forward combinations following yesterday's noon workout. The defence will consist of three veterans of last year's team, Broderick, Goselin and Heron with one newcomer, Babe Thompson. With the exception of Heron, all the rearguards shoot from the right side.

H-S-H LINE INTACT
The Hale-Sinclair-Hale line remains intact and will operate as it has for the last three years. The other line is an entirely new combination made up of familiar faces. Joe Pettit, a newcomer, will centre

Floor Hockey Continues Play At St. John's

The Dawson Floor Hockey League is now in its final week. When the smoke of battle clears Thursday evening, twelve teams will have emerged from the cluster of twenty-nine to stagger through to the playoffs.

6 POSITIONS CLINCHED
At the time of writing, in three of the six leagues the one-two positions have been decided. Such powerful teams as the Alkies, Commercial, and Virgins, all undefeated, long ago clinched their playoff spots, and the campus anxiously awaits the playoffs, which will see the pick of Dawson floor hockey outfits oppose each other.

The season so far has been highly successful, with surprisingly large crowds attending the highlight games. The Alkies, for instance, never fail to draw a few hundred

LOVE LETTERS

It seems that we walked right into a tempest when we discussed the McGill-Dawson basketball setup last week... The following letter from Charles Goldbloom, Dawson's playing coach, is the result:

"Dear Mr. Wolfe:

In Friday's Daily, you mentioned specifically that we have shown no inclination to support our intercollegiate entry. What do you propose we do, miss half a dozen lectures to attend practices in town? You state your facts as though you were backed by some sort of authority, and some of your points are good, but you do not appear to be familiar, or more apparently, you are not interested with the essential problems that we are faced with here."

"We, as a group, have given up valuable time and are obtaining lots of enjoyment in making Dawson a competitive senior entry and in that way are attempting to develop talent for this and future years."

"We are proud to be part of McGill. It should be quite evident by this time that Em. Orlick's policy has always been to give the best talent available here for the overall good of the university. As for getting any aid from Sherbrooke St. it is not the easiest job in the world. One finds that we have rules and regulations that date back to antiquity which have to be adhered to religiously."

ARE WE JEALOUS?

"I would like to know what you mean when you state, quote, 'We can't see why the Dawson entry in the MBL shouldn't be under McGill's name'. Surely to goodness, you are not jealous of us. Up until this time I was under the illusion that Dawson was a part of McGill and therefore in outside competition, synonymous with McGill. What you and a lot of others like you need is a lot more of that true college spirit, something that we at Dawson have lots of and are trying to instill into our big sister in Montreal."

"We wish to thank you for bringing to our attention that we at Dawson are expected to formulate the policy of the basketball teams here and at our Sherbrooke St. branch. This must be so as you most definitely imply that we are to blame for the present setup."

"And furthermore where do you get the gall to come out and tell us that we have a lack of spirit. This is something that we here cannot readily condone."

"Disgustedly yours,

C. A. Goldbloom."

THANKS, CHUCK

Before making any comments on Mr. Goldbloom's pungent epistle, we would like to thank the Dawson basketball coach for his personal remarks. He told us a few things that even our best friends wouldn't say... We didn't know that we had no college spirit, that we were jealous, and that we had plenty of gall... Well the last point proves our internal organs are working...

But to go from the ridiculous to the sublime, there are several points in the letter that deserve serious consideration, and are of utmost importance... If, as the Dawson coach states, McGill University is falling down in its aid to Dawson, then the situation should be rectified—immediately... If we have rules that "date back to antiquity", then lets have them changed—immediately... Air your complaints, Dawson, and then we'll do what we can to have them corrected. If at all possible...

But to deal with Charles Goldbloom's letter point by point... It seems that the Dawson mentor is labouring under a few misconceptions as regards what we said in our column last week... or maybe we weren't explicit enough...

POINT BY POINT

1. When we said that Dawson men had shown no inclination to play for McGill, we were quoting one of their own players who said "The fellows on our team don't want to play for McGill"... Maybe he was just speaking for himself, but it didn't sound like it... No Dawson players have contacted Lou Davies to see if suitable practise hours can be arranged, etc... They would if they really wanted to play Intercollegiate.

2. We are interested in the "essential problems" Dawson is facing... We have never implied anything else... But we would like to hear what these problems are... clearly and specifically... Then, maybe something can be done about them...

3. What we mean when we say the Dawson entry should be under McGill's name is as follows... There are around 16 cagers at McGill and, from what we've seen, around six at Dawson who are good enough to play MBL or Intercollegiate basketball... These 22 athletes should form a senior basketball manpower pool from which two teams can be chosen... The best ten could play Senior Intercollegiate, the remainder MBL... Thus Lou Davies could switch players from one of these teams to another, until he found the best possible combination... If the Dawson players found it impossible to attend all the practises in Montreal, then the St. John's hoopers could be coached in Davies style of play right out at Dawson... And that COULD be arranged... The MBL team could play its home games at Dawson as scheduled, and Dawsonites could cheer a McGill team, as such, for a change...

At present Dawson has seen fit to use players attending McGill on THEIR team... Let's make it OUR team, that is Dawson and McGill... Lets keep Dawson and McGill synonymous, as Charles Goldbloom says... We're not labouring under any "illusions"... Dawson is McGill, and McGill is Dawson... Dawson spirit should be McGill spirit, McGill spirit, Dawson spirit... We want an Intercollegiate team that is the best possible... That include Dawson...

COEDS ARCHERY

There will be an archery competition for coeds on Wednesday night, December 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Rifle range of the Currie Gym. This will include two classes, beginners and advanced. Those in the advanced section will be trying for team positions. A list has been posted in R.V.C. and all those interested in entering the competition are requested to sign up. How about a good turn out for this first match of the year, eh?

ENGINEERING DEBATING SOCIETY.

The weekly meeting of the Engineering Debating Society is scheduled for noon today between 1 and 2 o'clock in room 33 of the Engineering Building. Ed. Gauthier, president of the society, has announced that these meetings will occur regularly every Tuesday.

The procedure is to conduct the business of the society first and then to have as many impromptu speeches as the time will allow. These meetings afford a chance to all engineering students to practice public speaking without doing any preparation in the evening.

Those who wish to speak before an audience are urged to attend the meeting. Lunches may be brought to the room.

Queen's last weekend establishes the Blues as the team McGill will have to beat again this year. McGill's test will come this Saturday night when they take on an improved U. of M. squad at Verdun Arena.

Carabins have been practising on Verdun ice all along and by game time they should feel right at home on the southern rink. It was the lack of an artificial ice surface which made the Carabins the doormat of the league in the early part of last season.

Al Castledine, McGill manager has contacted West Point Military Academy for an exhibition game with the cadets but neither team can find a spot in their respective schedules which will be convenient for both.

was developed in a smaller court 32 x 21 x 15, and using a soft rubber ball. It was called "squash" rackets to distinguish it from the other "hard" rackets. This game spread rapidly through England and arrived in America slightly modified around 1890. Our court is 32 1/2 x 17 x 14, the width being the largest difference, in dimensions, while we use a ball much harder than the English "squash" ball.

PLAYERS' CLUB POSTPONE PRODUCTION

"Two Crooks and a Lady", the one act play to be produced by the Players' Club, will be staged on Monday, December 9.

Thus our basic shot is the hard drive up and down the side walls while in England more emphasis is put on the cleverly executed drop shot.

So when you're at the first Athletic Night on Saturday, be sure to drop in at the squash courts to watch the Redmen giving their best. Even if you've never seen a squash game before, the basic rules are so elementary that you'll have no trouble appreciating the speed and tense excitement of a match. There is no doubt that the calibre will be good and it is very probable that four of these five players will be representing McGill's first team on February 15th when Yale brings up its nine-man team for the third festival.

the game? Be seeing you there, hm?

ARCHERY COMING

How is your shooting? No, this is not the beginnings of a feud, but an invitation to come out to the archerettes shooting matches being held next Tuesday night, at 7:30 p.m. in the rifle range in the Currie Gym. Too difficult? Not had enough practice? It does not matter as one competition is for beginners only.

Trying for the team? then this is your chance. The other match is for team aspirants. What with the coming match at MacDonald College, this is your chance to prove your worth. A list has been posted in R.V.C. and all those who wish to enter this competition should sign up as soon as possible.

men played a practice match. This was featured by the consummation of the slap shot. This particular shot entails the passing of the ball to a man in front of the net who slaps it home without letting the ball touch the water. Dave Townsend the captain and goalkeeper of the team kept pace with the effective shooting by showing some very effective goalkeeping.

The Senior Team will practice again on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Floor Hockey—p. 3

enthusiastic spectators to howl and cheer at the powerful crew. Last Thursday saw by far the most spectacular game of the year being staged, when upwards of 250 fans roared themselves hoarse to the tune of a terrific fighting display of floor hockey by the Moose Boys. The opposition, of course, were the Aikies, and they won again, 5-3. This was only after surviving a bad scare as the Moose Boys, led by Johnny Pihlainen, Miro "Rocket" Bozich, and George Kolivu, came from behind a 3-0 deficit to tie the game in the third period.

BEARCATS STRONG

Thursday night brought another surprise. Fernand Paquette turned the hat trick to spark the Bearcats to a 9-0 triumph over the undefeated Grenfels. Off that performance, the "Flying Frenchmen" are definitely the team to watch.

The individual scoring race continues close, with Bert Hyndman still leading the pack with 19 goals, exactly half his team's entire output. Harry Leavitt and Ted Shaw trail Hyndman by only a few points in the race which will be decided within a few days.

So the battle continues. In the meantime, "Genial Jack" Goldwater and "Griff" Griffin, managers of the league, wish to express their thanks for the generous assistance given them in officiating by "Big Ed" Gauthier, and John A. MacDonald, and all the others who have helped out.

Dawson College is proud of its floor hockey enthusiasts, and sends forth a challenge to any ambitious McGill team.

ny, entertains no thought of anything but a win to compensate for close defeat inflicted by U. of M.

"The Doc" will probably start the same squad as last time with the exception of the centre. Taking over this much-changing position will probably be Andre Bedard, consistent high scorer. On his flanks will be the capable mid-gets of the team, Tiggy Chaloner and Frank Ramsay. With Captain Brian Laing and "Wonder" Zunder at guard, the team need have no fear of unnecessary St. Anne's baskets.

McKINNON, GODEL STANDOUT

Rounding off the nine man squad are four stalwarts who have shown good form up-to-date. As a second forward line chunky Collin McKinnon is a man to watch along with classy Elliott Godel, former Y.M. H.A. Juvenile star, and lanky Paul Samson. The third rear-guard for this bout is in the person of Bob Keeler. This lad, playing formerly with the Brooklyn Tech and the U.S. Submarine teams, was brought out on the floor for the first time a week ago last Wednesday in the U. of M. game. Although he was out of condition in that contest he put up a pretty good show of sparkling basketball, and after consistent practicing during the last two weeks he should hit the floor with a blaze of fire.

A NFCUS report was read by Harold Ames concerning progress to date by the various panel committees.

A committee was set up to seek further details on the proposed recording of McGill songs and cheers. RCA has indicated the feasibility of such a plan but no recording can be done until March.

A report from a Radio Broadcasting Committee was heard and the intentions of the group for broadcasting were heartily approved. Further details are pending the drawing up of a constitution.

The matter of checking coats in the Union will be discussed today by the Union House Committee.

cies which will ensure that every veteran who embarks on a course of training will be able to complete that course.

The government's attitude is that "educational grants are considered only as an aid to education and that it was never the intention of the government to underwrite the total costs." Apart from the fact that the increase proposed by the Conference WILL NOT cover the total costs in most parts of Canada this policy of our government can only lead to waste of the people's money and the loss to Canada of many hundreds of highly trained men and women. Half trained engineers, lawyers and doctors are of no benefit to the country as professionals and the money invested in them by the country is entirely wasted. Added to this the cynicism and disillusionment engendered in the individuals who undergo the "treatment" will certainly be a very negative contribution to this country's well-being.

It has been suggested that loan funds should be made available to those students who are having financial difficulties. Such a proposal is at best a very second rate solution for this problem. Loans will be required by those whose financial situation is very weak and to be saddled with a burden of debt on graduation will place an additional handicap on those people who are least able to bear it. These students will graduate in a much more inferior position to those few who are able to continue their studies without being forced to draw on their savings. Many graduates, such as dentists and physiotherapists, will have to make large capital outlays before launching their careers. Here again, a burden of debt would have to be added to that already taken on while they were attending the university. From all points of view a loan scheme is not the answer to the financial problem.

Housing and other problems which affect student veterans must also be dealt with immediately by our government. The coming Conference must deal with these matters in a very practical way. The decision of the last Conference calling on all student veteran organizations to carry on a big public campaign on a national housing program must be carried out this year. The final solution to the students' housing problems is closely related to the building of thousands of low rental homes in this country which will be made available to all Canadians who need decent homes.

In view of the seriousness of these problems and the action which is urgently necessary, all veterans on this campus should give them a great deal of attention. It is extremely important that every university be represented by delegates who have the necessary grasp of the situation to adequately speak for those whom they represent. There should be a great deal of discussion of these issues in the next few days so that those elected to speak for McGill at the Conference will be completely familiar with veteran opinion on this campus.

international student conferences will require sound judgment on the part of the delegates to the national Conference.

The Executive wishes to point out that only students who participate in two general meetings in succession will qualify for membership in good standing with right of vote in NFCUS decisions. The McGill constitution incorporated this feature to ensure that the purposes of NFCUS, nationally and locally would not be distorted by an influx of groups at any one important meeting, to reverse carefully prepared work, on the basis of this work being misrepresented by only sporadically interested students. NFCUS depends wholly on student participation. This clause was intended to ensure this aim on the national as well as the campus level.

sampling would have been far more accurate. The students who answered this questionnaire had definite problems and are not therefore representative of the entire veteran body. However, the men that did answer the questions indicate there is a definite problem in finances as well as housing.

Statistics show that married veterans are more in need of financial aid than single veterans. Thirty-one per cent. (31%) of single veterans as compared to forty-three point six per cent. (43.6%) of married veterans require a loan to finish college. Eighty-eight point one per cent. (88.1%) of single veterans as compared to ninety-three point seven per cent. (93.7%) of married veterans request an increase in allowance. This is further borne out in the comments of the individual veterans. Many men are depending on their wives' income to carry them through college and with a family, difficulties are further enhanced.

Regional cost of living, particularly in Montreal, was the subject of many comments. Apart from regular cost of living, commuting difficulties and books add up on expenses. Many of the men requesting increased allowances did so for those veterans who were married and for single men living away from home. Books and instrument expenses are the chief troubles of Engineering, Medicine and Dentistry.

The government's idea was to help the veteran through college but not finance him completely. However in many cases particularly in the more expensive faculties such as Engineering, Medicine, and Dentistry savings are rapidly being depleted. Further investigation of figures tabulated on this subject will bear out this depletion. Some provision should be made if not in the form of an allowance increase then in the form of a loan to finance those students whose savings and source of credit are rapidly dwindling. Many veterans, as indicated by their comments, are dependent on their parents and outside sources. In the nursing profession a reasonably sound financial situation was met but the comment that was prevalent was that the allowance was not enough to cover or nearly cover living expenses in Montreal.

Queen's Will Sponsor Parliamentary Society

Kingston, December 2. — (CUP) — A Parliamentary Society for the purpose of discussing politics will be sponsored by the AMS on the Queen's campus. It was decided by the student governing body. A committee has been appointed to draw up the constitution of this society.

The CCF Club was refused recognition on the grounds that 85 per cent. of the students did not want political clubs, as the AMS felt that by definition a political club has outside affiliation. It was felt that the students did want political discussion, and for this reason the AMS decided to sponsor a Parliamentary Society to meet the students demands.
